Cyber risk services

The risk of financial loss, business interruption or reputation damage from a failure or breach of IT systems becomes more significant every year. All types and sizes of organizations are at risk – not just financial institutions, defense contractors or other high-profile businesses.

Claims related to such cyber events vary and can trigger a number of different policies. Sedgwick has experience in this emerging risk arena and the expertise necessary to conduct full loss investigations, exposure and coverage interpretation, and final claim adjustments.

Data breach investigations

Most claims are related to data breaches when personally indentifiable information is stolen. Sedgwick works with forensic accountants and IT experts to complete thorough investigations, detailing:

- What has been lost
- How it was lost
- Replacement costs
- Whether the company is still at risk
- Necessary steps to improve security
- Potential damages due to the loss

Our service experience includes:

- Data centers
- Denial of service
- Regulatory actions
- Information security
- Business interruption
- Privacy liability
- Data recovery
- Malicious network access
- Shared and layered coverage placements
